During this course you will explore how as a leader you can empower people through understanding, valuing and capitalizing on all the strengths of each individual to enhance teamwork and increase effectiveness as a department and organization. Diversity is what builds teams — a collection of individual experiences, backgrounds, and cultures that can view problems and challenges from a wide-variety of lenses.

Pre-requisite: Participants should have attended a general diversity workshop within the last three years.

Learning objective includes:

- Attain a deeper knowledge of what diversity is, and how and why its management is relevant to the good performance of individuals, groups and organizations
- Identify as a leader your own personal impact for enhancing and promoting inclusion in the workplace
- Apply strategies to foster a positive work environment

Audience: This course is designed for faculty and staff serving in a leadership role on campus. It is also a core class in the supervisory certificate program.

Instructor(s): Dr. Shani Wilfred, Associate Professor, Criminal Justice & Dr. Kimberly Tanner, Certified Diversity Trainer
