

FREN 1002: Beginning French Language & Culture II

ONLINE

3 Credits

Department of Modern and Classical Languages

College of Arts & Sciences

Valdosta State University

Course Description: French 1002 is designed as a continuation of French 1001 as an introduction to the French language and culture with an emphasis on the development of proficiency and communicative competence at the novice level in the four basic skills: speaking, listening, reading, and writing as defined by the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages Proficiency Guidelines. This course also exposes students to various sociocultural aspects and the distinctiveness of certain cultural traditions of the Francophone world.

Homework :

You will be responsible for using the Heinle iLrn site (see GoVIEW for instructions) to complete homework for each chapter. It is the student’s responsibility to check the iLrn site, GoVIEW, and our syllabus for all assignments. Homework assignments for each week will be due on by 11:59 PM on the last day of that week.

Midterm :

You will have one test during the semester, a midterm. Dates are indicated on the syllabus plan below. This exam will count as 10% within the grade distribution. There will be NO MAKE-UP TESTS EXCEPT IN THE CASE OF A UNIVERSITY APPROVED EXCUSE. The exam will be delivered online and proctored. For the proctored exam, students can come to the Testing Center at VSU or any certified testing center. For more information regarding the details for proctored exam logistics, you can refer to the Proctored Exam module in our GoVIEW course. Any student who has been absent without an approved excuse may take the test for practice, but the grade will not count. The exam will be varied and will consist of listening comprehension, speaking, reading, and writing sections.

Quizzes:

Each week will cover one part of a chapter and have a quiz based on the associated material, these quizzes are necessarily cumulative due to the nature of language learning.

Written and Oral Assignments:

We will be using a variety of tools to supplement our learning in this course, especially in the area of reading and writing skills. This gives you a creative space to showcase what you have learned. All assignments and due dates will be clearly indicated on the syllabus as well as on GoVIEW. Based on the “living” nature of a syllabus and course, it is your responsibility to check online and prepare in a timely fashion.

Compositions: You will be required to write 1 composition for this course related to certain areas of interest within our studies. The specific details of the composition topics, requirements, and rubrics are posted and thoroughly explained on GoVIEW.

Oral Exam:

You will have 1 oral exam during the semester; dates are indicated on the syllabus plan below and online. Instructions will be posted on GoVIEW as appropriate.

Final Project:

At the end of the semester you will make a YouTube video of 3-5 minutes in which you will talk about a topic related to the chapters we will cover in the textbook. Instructions and rubrics should be posted on GoVIEW as appropriate.

Late Work:

Late work will not be accepted. All students MUST turn in all assignments on time to get credit. Students must submit assignments early when they know ahead of time that they will have an excused absence. Legitimate excuses will be accepted only with official documentation (e.g., hospital administration form or letter from VSU official). Those students who anticipate not being able to fulfill course responsibilities for religious holidays or VSU sponsored activities should notify me at the beginning of the semester.

In general, no make-ups will be given. Only those students with legitimate documented excuses may be offered the chance to make-up a missed assignment.

Textbook Information:

You will be required to use the Liaisons textbook and the online ancillary components for many class activities. Please consult the Course Syllabus and Textbook Information module on our GoVIEW course site for detailed information on how to access and use these materials.

Attendance and Participation:

Students are expected to participate in all instructional activities. This is especially important in the study of languages where dedication and steady participation is required for success. Online courses are no different from classroom courses in this regard; however, participation must be defined in a different manner.

In order to be successful in this class, you must log in to GoVIEW frequently (daily at a minimum) and regularly view and participate in the modules and course assignments as required. Student "attendance" in online course will be defined as an active participation in the course as described in the course syllabus. Online courses will, at a minimum, have weekly mechanisms for students participation, which can be documented by any or all of the following: students tracking in D2L, submission/completion of assignments, and communication with the instructor. Other activities, such as quizzes, tests, and composition will also constitute mechanisms for the successful participation of the online student. All of the elements in the course work together to help you with skills in speaking, listening, reading, and writing in French. It is important to give each assignment your best effort and use the resources on GoVIEW and in your textbook to get the most of your learning experience. Students who do not log on to the course within the drop/add period will be dropped. Students who fail to maintained active participation in an online course as defined in University Policies will be treated in accordance with these policies.

Academic Integrity:

“Academic integrity is the responsibility of all VSU faculty members and students. Faculty members should promote academic integrity by including clear instruction on the components of academic integrity and clearly defining the penalties for cheating and plagiarism in their course syllabi. Students are responsible for knowing and abiding by the Academic Integrity Policy as set forth in the Student Code of Conduct and faculty members’ syllabi. All students are expected to do their own work and to uphold a high standard of academic ethics.” VSU Academic Integrity Code

The Academic Integrity policy will be taken very seriously in this course. Students are expected to follow all university guidelines pertaining to academic integrity.

All work for this class must be done by the individual student unless stated otherwise by the instructor. Electronic or online translators, automatic conjugators, help from native speakers or more advanced students (aside from registered tutors), and copying of print sources from the Internet or anywhere else are all strictly forbidden.

IF THERE IS A SUSPICION OF USE OF ONLINE TRANSLATORS OR OTHER PROHIBITED RESOURCES, WORK WILL BE GIVEN A FAILING GRADE. No matter your home institution, you are enrolled in a collaborative course, which means you are expected to adhere to the codes of academic integrity at your home institution as well as at the institution that offers this course.

Access Office for Students with Disabilities:

Students with disabilities who are experiencing barriers in this course need to contact their home institution office that deals with specific needs [and should notify me as soon as possible that they are doing so].

At Valdosta State University, students with disabilities who are experiencing barriers in this course may contact the Access Office for assistance in determining and implementing reasonable accommodations.

The access Office is located in Farbar Hall. The phone numbers are 229-245-2498 (V), 229-375-5871. For more information, please visit VSU's Access Office or email: access@valdosta.edu.

Title IX:

Please see your home institution statement regarding Title IX. Since Valdosta State University offers this course, see our statement below:

Valdosta State University (VSU) is committed to creating a diverse and inclusive work and learning environment free from discrimination and harassment. VSU is dedicated to creating an environment where all campus community members feel valued, respected, and included. Valdosta State University prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, ethnicity, national origin, sex (including sexual harassment and sexual violence), sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, age, disability, genetic information, or veteran status, in the University's programs and activities as required by applicable laws and regulations such as Title IX. The individual designated with responsibility for coordination of compliance efforts and receipt of inquiries concerning nondiscrimination policies is the University's Title IX Coordinator: the Director of the Office of Social Equity, titleix@valdosta.edu, 1208 N. Patterson St., Valdosta State University, Valdosta, Georgia 31698, 229-333-5463.
