Office hours by appointment through departmental secretary and online.

Section 3 – Course Description

Course description:

Concepts, vocabulary, and subject matter in the development of the rock and roll and subsequent genres.

Required Text and Materials:

Megill, Donald D., and David W. History of Rock and Roll Online. 2nd Ed. Dubuke, IA: Kendall Hunt Publishing, 2010.

Course overview:

This course focuses on the essential chronological relationship and follows the interesting developmental threads outlined through the history of Rock and Roll. Students should find this course interesting, entertaining, and enriching.

Section 4 – Standards, Goals, Objectives or Outcomes

Course Objectives:

1. Identify historical trends and procedures in popular music (rock and roll).
2. Identify appropriate concepts in popular music (rock and roll) performances.
3. Develop a conceptual vocabulary in popular music (rock and roll).
4. Develop research and listening skills appropriate to popular music (rock and roll) study.

Educational Outcomes: (VSU General Education Outcomes 3, 4, & 7; Music Department 3; NASM VIII D 3)

- Students will demonstrate an understanding of the historical developments and concepts central to the field of popular music (rock and roll) through reading assignments and examinations.
- Students will develop the ability to apply analytical, historical, and empirical knowledge to popular music (rock and roll) activities.
- Students will demonstrate an understanding of popular music (rock and roll) concepts through research assignments and listening presentations.
- Students will employ computer technology and internet research capabilities as part of course discussions.

Section 5 - Assignments

Assignments:

- Time Requirements
 - Two hours per week listening to selections on the accompanying CD
 - Two hours per week "online"
 - Two hours per week writing and reading
- Discussion Topics – required online participation by each student
- Concert Reports – students are required to attend three concerts and submit an online report for each.
- Essays – one-page essays are required for each lesson in the course. Many of these essays are responses to listening material on the CD.
- Tests – are taken online.

Section 6 – Assessment

- Each Concert will be awarded up to 20 points.
- Each essay topic will be awarded up to 30 points.
- Points are given for each assignment, test, discussion, and concert report.
 - A = approximately 85% or more of all possible points as well as finishing ALL assignments, tests, concert reports, and participating in discussion topics
 - B = approximately 75% or more of all possible points as well as completing ALL assignments, tests, 2 of 3 concert reports, and participating in discussion topics
 - C = approximately 65% or more of all possible points as well as at least five assignments (one-page essays).
 - D = approximately 55% or more of all possible points.
 - F – less than 55% of all possible points.

Section 7 – Schedule of Activities

- The class will meet online with study according to the course calendar.

Section 8 – Classroom Policies

Accommodation

Students requesting classroom accommodations or modifications due to a documented disability must contact the Access Office for Students with Disabilities located in room 1115 Nevins Hall. The phone numbers are 245-2498 (V/VP) and 219-1348 (TTY).

Academic Integrity

Academic integrity is the responsibility of all VSU faculty and students. Faculty members should promote academic integrity by including clear instruction on the components of academic integrity and clearly defining the penalties for cheating and plagiarism in their course syllabi. Students are responsible for knowing and abiding by the Academic Integrity Policy as set forth in the Student Code of Conduct and the faculty members' syllabi. All students are expected to do their own work and to uphold a high standard of academic ethics.

Section 9 – Additional Information

- Students registered for this class must have the following:
 - Access to the Internet with at least a 56K speed modem
 - A web browser
 - A CD-ROM drive and speakers or headphones
- The music selections required for the listening portion of this class consist of a 2-CD collection that comes with the textbook. Students will need the CDs to access the Interactive Listening Guides.
- An Interactive Listening Lab is available as a free download. The listening lab will provide guided listening of the selections discussed in the text along with information about the selections.

Improving Student Learning Outcomes Regarding date changes, removing the summer acceptance dates allows us to accept students on a traditional acceptance cycle (Fall and Spring) consistent with the new curriculum rotation approved last year. Currently, we are unable to provide courses for students beginning in the summer, so this formalizes our current practice. Regarding the proposed new admissions requirements, we currently have no way of ensuring program fit using the graduate school minimums. By adding the Career Goals Statement and Three Letters of Recommendation, we can more effectively match student interests and aspirations with careers our program tracks prepare them to assume.

Adopting Current Best Practice(s) in Field

Meeting Mandates of State/Federal/Outside Accrediting Agencies Regarding date changes, the proposed dates are consistent with ACPA's Professional Preparation Commission "Common Acceptance Deadline," adopted in 2002, which requests all graduate preparation programs adhere to a common acceptance date for graduate assistantships. To meet this deadline, we intend to notify students of program acceptance by the new deadline (April 1), followed by notification of graduate assistantships by April 15 (see: <http://www.myacpa.org/comm/profprep/>). Regarding the proposed new admissions requirements, requesting additional information from applicants to enhance fit is consistent with CAS (2009) Standards, in particular: "Students admitted to the program should have ample intellectual capacities, strong interpersonal skills, serious interest in the program, commitment to pursuing a career in students affairs. . ." COURSE DESCRIPTION

An advanced examination of the elements and core skills of writing, particularly as they apply to business and industry, with an emphasis on disciplinary rhetoric and style, including usage, diction, grammar, structure, tone, brevity, and clarity.

ENGL 2010 is designed to introduce students to writing and reading in the academic disciplines and related professions. This course familiarizes students with the discourse practices observed in their professions while further developing their basic writing skills. The goals of ENGL 2010 are to introduce students to typical kinds of writing in their chosen fields of study, to improve their skills as critical thinkers, readers, and writers, and to enhance their understanding of how disciplinary conventions and rhetorical situations affect choices in language, style, organization, format, and documentation. While reading assignments expose students to writing strategies in a variety of disciplines, students also investigate the discourse conventions in their own fields of study while receiving instruction, guidance, and practice in planning, drafting, revising, and editing discipline-specific documents and essays. Students learn how to evaluate primary and secondary sources for accuracy, authority, bias, and relevance, and how to synthesize and incorporate sources within their writing.

As a teacher of writing, I subscribe to the principles of effective teaching adopted by the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE). These beliefs will guide this course:

- 1) Everyone has the capacity to write, writing can be taught, and teachers can help students become better writers.
- 2) People learn to write by writing.
- 3) Writing is a process.
- 4) Writing is a tool for thinking.
- 5) Writing grows out of many different purposes.
- 6) Conventions of finished and edited texts are important to readers and therefore to writers.
- 7) Writing and reading are related.
- 8) Writing has a complex relationship to talk.
- 9) Literate practices are embedded in complicated social relationships.
- 10) Composing occurs in different modalities and technologies.
- 11) Assessment of writing involves complex, informed, human judgment.

GENERAL EDUCATION OUTCOMES

- Students will express themselves clearly, logically, and precisely in writing and in speaking, and they will demonstrate competence in reading and listening
- Students will demonstrate the ability to analyze, to evaluate, and to make inferences from oral, written, and visual materials

COURSE OBJECTIVES

This course focuses on the skills and strategies that professionals need in order to write successfully on the job. Accordingly, students in the course will

- Analyze writing by professionals in order to explore common rhetorical situations and strategies as well as to discover features that distinguish their profession from others
- Learn how writers alter their style and messages for different readers
- Use advanced strategies for writing processes, including planning, invention, arrangement, style, presentation/delivery, and revision
- Understand and apply basic principles of critical thinking and problem solving through written exposition and argument
- Write effective sentences and paragraphs
- Compose papers that are logical, persuasive, organized, clear, concise, and error-free
- Observe appropriate generic conventions and formats for a variety of documents
- Research and write a documented paper or report that conforms to the standards of their discipline, including the use of appropriate citation conventions

COURSE POLICIES AND EXPECTATIONS

ATTENDANCE

Regular attendance is crucial and expected. After 3 absences, each subsequent absence will result in 3 percentage points taken from your final grade average. In other words, each absence over 3 will result in a 30-point deduction (see Grading Scale section of this syllabus). More than 6 absences may result in a failing grade for the course.

CLASS COURTESY

This is a college course and we are all adults here. As such, you are expected to act in a mature, courteous, and respectful manner at all times towards your fellow students and me. Doing so will entail, among others things, the following:

- Paying attention to who is speaking, whether it is the instructor, a guest lecturer, or a classmate.
- Not disturbing the class by whispering to or carrying on a conversation with another student during class.
- Arriving on time and leaving when dismissed; if you need to arrive late or leave early, do so as unobtrusively as possible, and make sure to give the reason for it to me ahead of time (if at all possible) or after class.
- Not eating during class as it is rude and usually disruptive; bringing a drink is acceptable—as long as you are careful not to spill or make lots of noise with it.
- Listening courteously and with an open mind to your classmates' comments during class discussions; also, making sure that your responses are thoughtful and to the topic—not directed against a classmate.
- Not bringing guests or children to class with you unless you have cleared it ahead of time with me.
- Turning off all cell phones, pagers, MP3 players, notebook computers, and other personal electronic equipment before entering class.

Note that any student violating any of these rules of courtesy may be asked to leave the class for the day and will be marked absent for the session. Repeated violation of the rules of courtesy may result in further disciplinary action.

PARTICIPATION

We should view ourselves, and thus this course, as a community of writers and thinkers; as such, it is the responsibility of each student to come to class prepared. Your full participation in all class activities is expected and required.

The success of class discussions and workshops depends upon the full engagement of all participants. This means, among other things, sharing your ideas and opinions with other members of the class. A successful class discussion cannot rely solely on the voice of the instructor and/or a small number of students; class discussion is a dialogue among all members of the class. It is a communication. Please be mindful, therefore, of your participation in discussions. Our goal as a class is for no one to remain absolutely silent and for no one to dominate the discourse.

In writing workshops you will be working with other members of your group on revising drafts. You are expected to bring multiple copies of your draft to each of these workshops. It will be impossible for you to participate meaningfully in your group without your own draft and you will be counted absent for that day.

Civil discourse and respect for the opinions of others is crucial to the free flow of ideas and to intellectual development. All students are expected to act accordingly at all times. Rude and/or abusive language or behavior will not be tolerated.

Please remember that coming to class unprepared and/or not participating may seriously affect your final grade.

DEADLINES AND LATE ASSIGNMENTS

The learning in this course requires in-depth reading, reflection, writing, discussion, and independent work. To achieve our goals, you must complete your work in a timely manner. Late projects and assignments will be penalized a letter grade for each day that the work is late. No exceptions to this policy will be made for any reason, including but not limited to technology problems. You should also keep all written work until you have received a final grade for the course.

ACADEMIC HONESTY

The following policy is taken from the 2010-2011 Undergraduate Catalog (pages 100-101): Academic integrity is the responsibility of all VSU faculty and students. Faculty members should promote academic integrity by including clear instruction on the components of academic integrity and clearly defining the penalties for cheating and plagiarism in their course syllabi. Students are responsible for knowing and abiding by the Academic Integrity Policy as set forth in the Student Code of Conduct and the faculty members' syllabi. All students are expected to do their own work and to uphold a high standard of academic ethics. Appendix A of the Student Code of Conduct in the VSU Student Handbook outlines academic integrity violations as well as the academic response and disciplinary response to such violations: <<http://www.valdosta.edu/studentaffairs/StudentHandbook.shtml>>. The online VSU Student Handbook reflects the most current policy on academic integrity. Academic integrity violations may result in suspension or expulsion from the university. Additional information on academic integrity as well as resources for faculty and students can be found at the Academic Affairs website: <<http://www.valdosta.edu/academic/AcademicHonestyatVSU.shtml>>.

Plagiarism is defined as "the copying of the language, structure, ideas, and/or thoughts of another and passing off same as one's own, original work." The violation, then, consists of both copying and misrepresenting the material in question. When a student places his or her name on any kind of work, he or she claims responsibility for the originality of the contents except for those parts that are specifically attributed to another or that are considered common knowledge. If a student has consulted any outside source, whether published or not, and has incorporated any of its "language, structure, ideas, and/or thoughts" into his or her work without acknowledging that source, he or she may be guilty of misrepresenting the work's originality. When paraphrasing material from an outside source, the student must change both the sentence structure and the vocabulary (where possible) in expressing the original material in his or own words. Any instance where the "language, structure, ideas, and/or thoughts" have been borrowed from another's work, paraphrased or not, without proper reference/citation, the act constitutes plagiarism on the part of the writer.

In short, if you plagiarize, you will automatically receive a failing grade not simply on the particular assignment but, in fact, for the course itself. In addition, I will report your dishonesty to the Student Conduct Office in the Dean of Students Office. Be forewarned: no exceptions to the above policy will be considered.

PUBLIC NATURE OF WRITING

Writing, as a form of communication, is essentially social, and feedback is an important component of the writing process. As a result, please keep in mind that all work generated in this course is considered public writing and may be read/evaluated by me and/or your classmates.

STUDENT GRIEVANCES

Should you ever have any questions or concerns about the course, your grade, or an assignment, please do not hesitate to see me as soon as possible. If not satisfied with our discussion, you may consult the English Department Chair, Dr. Mark Smith.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Students requesting classroom accommodations or modifications due to a documented disability must contact the Access Office for Students with Disabilities located in Farber Hall. The phone numbers are 245-2498 (V/VP) and 219-1348 (TTY).

STUDENT SUCCESS CENTER

Their Mission Statement: The Student Success Center (SSC) at Valdosta State University is designed to foster interactions with peers, faculty, and staff that lead to active learning and positive attitudes toward academic life. We do this by providing free professional academic advising, peer tutoring in core curriculum courses, and campus job information in one location. Our goal is two-fold: to support good students who want to achieve excellence as well as those who feel they are struggling and to serve as a resource for faculty.

The SSC writing tutors helps students in all disciplines improve as writers through individual and group sessions. To schedule an appointment, call the SSC (229.333.7570) or visit their website at www.valdosta.edu/ssc. Conferences may last up to an hour. You may also see a tutor without an appointment if a tutor is available. The SSC is located on the ground floor of Langdale Residence Hall.

COURSE WORK

A syllabus is not intended to be a schedule but rather a summary or outline. Consequently, this syllabus presents a general overview of what you can expect in this course and is meant only as a tentative guide. I reserve the right to alter the direction and content of this course and syllabus to reflect the needs of the class as I see fit. In other words, the syllabus, including schedule and assignments, are subject to change. I might add or subtract assignments as well as add quizzes—announced or unannounced. You can eliminate confusion and avoid falling behind by attending every class meeting.

Remember: students are responsible for content missed due to absence. Students' ignorance due to absence is not the instructor's problem to solve.

If at any time during the semester you have concerns about your grade or performance in the course, please feel free to speak with me.

FILE-NAMING CONVENTIONS

To help organize the work in the course, please adhere to the following conventions when naming assignment files: your first and last name, and then the assignment name. So, for instance, I would name my Critique paper as follows: RickCarpenterCritique.

FILE FORMAT

Unless otherwise stated, all work for the course must be submitted as a Word document (.docx or .doc).

ELECTRONIC SUBMISSIONS

Unless otherwise stated, all work for the course should be submitted electronically via the course homepage on BlazeVIEW. Work is due by the start of class; any work received after that will be considered late.

GRADING SCALE FOR FINAL GRADE

NEW PROPOSAL FORM: ONE-STEP PROCESS

(Submit One Copy)

REVISED FORMAL PROPOSAL

Institution: Valdosta State University

Institutional Contact: Dr. Philip L. Gunter, Provost and VPAA

Date:

School/Division: Division of Adult Academic Degree Completion and Professional Development Programs

Department:

Departmental Contact: Dr. Gerald A. Merwin (229-253-2874)

Name of Proposed Program/Inscription: Organizational Leadership

Degree: Bachelor of Science

Major: Organizational Leadership

CIP Code: 52.0213

Anticipated Starting Date: Fall 2011

1. Program Description and Objectives:

The new Bachelor of Science in Organizational Leadership is designed for non-traditional adult and military students, students seeking degree completion, or traditional students who are seeking to improve their credentials and knowledge base for professional advancement. The focus on organizational leadership will be especially beneficial to those wanting to enter public service since many agencies seek employees with bachelors' degrees and are specifically interested in employees with an understanding of organizational management, administration, human resources, and technology skills applicable to organizational leadership. Additionally, the program is focused on providing students with educational experiences that will allow them to better understand issues related to organizational and business operations. The degree program will delve into the practices, theories, issues, parameters and specific ramifications of the increasingly complex aspects of organizational leadership.

The program will provide students with a foundational understanding of organizational leadership through the required Major courses totaling 30 hours in the core. These courses from disciplines that include Adult and Career Education, Philosophy, Psychology, and Political Science will provide students with the skills and knowledge necessary for developing, analyzing and implementing policy decisions. Beyond the foundational courses, students will choose thirty hours of combined concentration and elective courses. This multidisciplinary approach will allow students to develop areas of expertise that will best meet the needs of their career paths. This includes concentrations specializing in Office Administration and Technology, Public Service Administration, Legal Office Administration, or Law Enforcement Leadership. The majority of the courses in these concentrations are already offered by VSU as a part of existing majors and minors.

Students will complete the degree program by demonstrating the ability to integrate the knowledge obtained in their course work through an additional six hours of required courses in reflective practice and the development of an independent capstone project/paper.

The program will be provided fully online with a program of study initially offered on a two-year rotation. Full-time students may complete all requirements within two academic years.

a. Objectives of the program

This program is designed to provide non-traditional students, military personnel, and traditional students with the opportunity to obtain increased knowledge and the academic credentials necessary to obtain leadership positions in a variety of fields. Through these positions of leadership, graduates would be expected to implement policies that address the complexities of leading public and private sector organizations.

b. Needs the program will meet

This program will meet the needs of full-time professionals who do not have the time or opportunity to leave work for classes at the undergraduate level. Since the program will be offered completely online, professionals and military personnel who wish to pursue degree completion can take the courses from their computers. This approach eliminates the need to interrupt work to travel to and from campus while providing access to education to those who may not have had the opportunity to take classes in the past.

Additionally, since the program provides a B.S. in a multidisciplinary program of study that will appeal to non-traditional and military students and those who are seeking degree completion, it fills a notable gap in degree offerings at state schools.

With the incorporation of courses from the Public Administration Minor in Political Science, the Bachelor of Science in Organizational Leadership will provide a broad understanding of leadership and administrative issues to citizens who are already engaged at the municipal, regional, state, and national levels, or those who hope to work in the private sector. With regard to military personnel alone, there is an evidenced need for a multidisciplinary undergraduate degree that builds upon military leadership competencies.

c. Brief explanation of how the program is to be delivered

The Bachelor of Science in Organizational Leadership will be delivered through a fully-online format. Students will not be required to physically attend courses on the VSU campus. Content and classes will be provided via the institution's existing Blackboard Vista installation, or through an appropriate Learning Management System adopted as the institutional standard. VSU has extensive experience in the delivery of online degree programs and provides adequate institutional resources to sustain this effort, including but not limited to the Learning Management System, web-conferencing and synchronous communication tools, online assessment tools, asynchronous communication tools, online library and research resources, and tools for assessing academic integrity.

The online delivery approach is consistent with the USG Strategic Goal #2 to increase accessibility to degree programs outside of the traditional delivery and attendance parameters. More important, the online format is acknowledged as a preferred method of delivery for adult, military, and non-traditional students. In the effort to make the University System of Georgia "Faster, Friendlier and Easier for Military Personnel," the Board of Regents has recognized that it is "difficult to provide college degree programs to military personnel - a population frequently on the move and out of reach of a USG campus - through traditional means." (<http://www.usg.edu/news/2007/030507.phtml>). Furthermore, VSU is a founding member of the USG's Adult Learning Consortium, and is recognized as a leader in initiatives to serve the needs of adult and military students.

d. Prioritization within the institution's strategic plan

This new online degree program is consistent with VSU's strategic goal to "develop programs and program delivery strategies that meet the needs of non-traditional degree seeking students." Furthermore, the program of study addresses the intention of the University to "teach in interdisciplinary pedagogies and offer instruction via multiple delivery systems."

VSU's establishment of the Division of Adult Academic Degree Completion and Professional Development Programs, with its emphasis on adult and military programs, demonstrates the institution's commitment to develop online undergraduate programs appealing to non-traditional and adult learners.

The program also specifically fits with the strategic direction of VSU in two ways:

VSU Strategic Goal #1 promotes growth in undergraduate and graduate enrollment through additional new students and increased retention and graduation rates of existing students. The Bachelor of Science in Organizational Leadership supports this approach by offering online courses that are attractive to the growing audience of adult learners. Additionally, the classes are designed to offer practical and theoretical knowledge that benefit employers and that students can apply to their everyday work and life activities in their communities of practice.

VSU Strategic Goal #3 promotes the identification and development of programs which prepare students to be responsible, thoughtful and productive citizens. The Bachelor of Science in Organizational Leadership supports this approach by providing a multidisciplinary online program of study. The degree program provides courses that apply research and practice to cognate areas in the domain of organizational leadership, including human resource management, office administration, technology, public service, and legal issues.

2. Description of the program's fit with the institutional mission and nationally accepted trends in the discipline.

The Council for Adult and Experiential Learning (CAEL) is a national, non-profit organization which focuses on effective learning strategies for working adults through partnerships with employers, higher education, the public sector, and labor. CAEL has identified a number of common obstacles working adults must overcome to complete a degree.

- Nearly two-thirds of college students transfer at least once before completing their undergraduate degree.
- An increasing number of students have gained college-level learning from their work and life experiences, yet many institutions have no formal Prior Learning Assessment (PLA) policy or program.
- Thousands of veterans will be transitioning to civilian jobs after service in Iraq and Afghanistan; many will have college-level knowledge and skills that they have acquired during their time in service.

For six years, VSU has been involved with prior learning assessment, and is currently providing leadership in the USG Adult Learning Consortium. These experiences have fostered changes in policies and practices to address common obstacles faced by adult learners. VSU's credit policies acknowledge that college-level learning frequently occurs outside the college classroom; experiential learning may be worthy of credit relevant to the major, and not be relegated to "elective" status, and prior learning will likely take place at other institutions. The new online degree in Organizational Leadership will make provide options for students to earn credit for prior learning through the College-Level Examination Program, the American Council on Education's credit recommendation program, PLA portfolio assessment, and transfer articulation agreements and guarantees across institutions.

There is a nationally recognized need for programs that address adult learners. In fact, recent statistics indicate that achievement of national goals for a well-educated workforce cannot be accomplished without degree completion programs for adult learners. The multidisciplinary nature of the Organizational Leadership program, and the fact that its leadership comes from the Division of Adult Academic Degree Completion and Professional Development Programs, will make this program attractive to nontraditional students seeking to complete their degrees. The establishment of an online Bachelor of Science with a major in Organizational Leadership clearly furthers the mission of the University and fits into the strategic plan for future growth.

3. Description of how the program demonstrates demand and a justification of need in the discipline and geographic area and is not unnecessary program duplication.

In the University System of Georgia, there is no institution that is currently authorized to offer the baccalaureate degree in Organizational Leadership. Among the institutions involved in the USG Adult Learning Consortium (ALC), there are no online, multidisciplinary degrees other than the Bachelor of General Studies. The courses in the core and the available areas of concentration in the Organizational Leadership program of study provide preparation in several employment areas identified as "hot careers" by the Georgia Department of Labor. Five of the "hot careers" that the Georgia Department of Labor estimates will create about 12,050 jobs annually for the next seven years include: Paralegals and Legal Assistants, Directors of Religious Activities & Education, Medical and Public Health Social Workers, Social and Community Service Managers, and Training & Development Specialists. A bachelor's degree in Organizational Leadership, with appropriate concentrations within this degree program, would prepare Georgia's citizens to fill these anticipated job openings, as well as management positions in the private sector. According to the Georgia Department of Labor and the U.S. Department of Labor, managers range from around $55,000 per year to around $85,000. The Bureau of Labor Statistics forecasts that management positions are among the least likely to be outsourced to foreign suppliers.

4. Brief description of institutional resources that will be used specifically for the program (e.g., personnel, library, equipment, laboratories, supplies & expenses, capital expenditures at program start-up and when the program undergoes its first comprehensive program review.

As an experienced provider of online programs, VSU is well prepared to launch the new online degree in Organizational Leadership, and to scale resources as program enrollment grows. VSU initiated its first fully online program more than a decade ago. Online courses and programs have been very successful at VSU. During the fall 2010 semester, more than 17 percent of VSU students were enrolled in one or more online course. More than 1,100 students attended completely online. More than 99% of VSU students log into the online Learning Management System every semester, either for fully online, hybrid, or technology enhanced courses.

The Division of Adult Academic Degree Completion and Professional Development Programs will need no additional faculty to implement this new degree program. Because the proposed program is multidisciplinary in nature, it will not overly rely on any single area to provide courses in the major. Instead, the academic coursework will be dispersed across multiple disciplines and among a large number of faculty members, each contributing a small component to the program. This will allow the additional coursework to be added largely through a manipulation of current undergraduate teaching loads. In some cases, an extra compensation course may be added. The program is primarily composed of courses currently included in the programs for Office Administration and Technology, Political Science, Sociology, Legal Assistant Studies, or Criminal Justice. The budget expenses related to these courses are provided by the departments that offer them.

5. Curriculum: List the entire course of study required and recommended to complete the degree program. Provide a sample program of study that would be followed by a representative student.

Guided Electives (15 hours)

- a. Clearly differentiate which courses are existing and which are newly developed courses. Include the course titles as well as acronyms and credit hour requirements associated with each course.

All courses in the program of study outlined above already exist.

- b. Append course descriptions for all courses (existing and new courses).

See appendix

- d. When describing required or elective courses, list all course prerequisites.

All course prerequisites and elective courses are noted in the Program Outline.

- d. Provide documentation that all courses in the proposed curriculum have met all institutional requirements for approval.

See appendix

- e. Append materials available from national accrediting agencies or professional organizations as they relate to curriculum standards for the proposed program.

There is no plan to seek program accreditation at this time.

- f. Indicate ways in which the proposed program is consistent with national standards.

The courses in the program will follow national standards for online course design. The program is consistent with other degree programs in the field including those offered by East Tennessee State University, Penn State, Wright State, and other public universities.

- g. If internships or field experiences are required as part of the program, provide information documenting internship availability as well as how students will be assigned and supervised.

The program will not include any internship experiences.

- h. Indicate the adequacy of core offerings to support the new program.

The required core courses will be offered through eCore, and Area F courses will be delivered online on a regular basis.

6. Admissions criteria. Please include required minimal scores on appropriate standardized tests and grade point average requirements.

All applicants must complete an application for admission and submit a $40 application fee. Freshmen must submit an official high school transcript and SAT or ACT scores. Transfer students with less than 30 transferable hours must meet freshmen admission requirements as well as submit all official college transcripts. Transfer students with more than 30 semester hours are only required to submit official transcripts from all colleges attended. While the priority deadline for admission is 30 days prior to the beginning of the semester, students are strongly encouraged to apply early. Campus housing, scholarships and some forms of financial aid are contingent upon students' acceptance to the University and do have much earlier deadlines. All students are also required to submit a certification of immunization and report of medical history.

7. Availability of assistantships (if applicable).

None

8. Student learning outcomes and other associated outcomes of the proposed program.

Upon completion of the Bachelor of Science with a major in Organizational Leadership:

1. Students will demonstrate an understanding of organizational leadership as it relates to and impacts on individuals, communities, and wider society within democratic, multicultural, and national perspectives.
2. Students will demonstrate the ability to effectively express themselves on topics and issues related to the field of organization.
3. Students will demonstrate critical thinking and problem solving abilities regarding issues related to organizational leadership.
4. Students will demonstrate an understanding of the ethical principles underlying both research and practice in the fields of organizational leadership.

9. Administration of the program

- a. Indicate where the program will be housed within the academic units of the institution.

The program will be housed in the Division of Adult Academic Degree Completion and Professional Development Programs.

b. Describe the administration of the program inclusive of coordination and responsibility.

The Director of the Division of Adult Academic Degree Completion and Professional Development Programs will coordinate the program in conjunction with academic departments offering courses in the major and areas of concentration. The Director will maintain a schedule courses for the program, monitor student progress, and serve as academic advisor for students in the program, recruit students into the program and serve as a source for students seeking information on the program.

A committee of Deans or representatives from each college will guide the program and review all appeals. Any issues related to program changes and new concentrations will be reviewed by the committee and recommendations will be made to the Provost.

10. Waiver to Degree-Credit Hour (if applicable): If the program exceeds the maximum credit hour requirement at a specific degree level, then provide an explanation supporting the increase in hours (Note: The maximum for bachelor's degrees is 120-semester credit hours and the maximum for masters degrees is 36-semester credit hours).

The program requirements do not exceed the maximum credit hour requirement.

11. Accreditation: Describe disciplinary accreditation requirements associated with the program (if applicable).

There is no plan to seek accreditation for the program.

12. Projected enrollment for the program especially during the first three years of implementation. Please indicate whether enrollments will be cohort-based.

The program is not cohort based. Students may join the program during any term.

13. Faculty

a. Provide an inventory of faculty directly involved with the administration of the program. For each faculty member, provide the following information:

Faculty Name	Rank	Highest Degree	Degrees Earned	Academic Discipline	Current Workload
Viviane Foyou	Assistant Professor			Public Administration
Vesta R. Whisler	Assistant Professor			Adult and Career Education
Li-Mei D Chen	Assistant Professor			English

Christine James	Professor			Philosophy
To Be Determined				Psychology
Explanation of how workload will be impacted by the new program: Since all courses in the proposed program of study already exist, the program is highly scalable. Initial student enrollments can be accommodated through currently scheduled offerings. As program enrollment grows, additional part-time and full-time faculty will be added to provide additional section offerings each semester.
Expected responsibilities in the program: It is expected that as program enrollment grows, and as additional programs for adult academic degree completion and professional development are developed, a program coordinator will be provided. The program coordinator will serve as academic advisor for all students in the program, faculty facilitator, liaison with the eLearning Department, Admissions, Student Success Center, and the IT Division.

Total Number of Faculty: 6

b. If it will be necessary to add faculty in order to begin the program, give the desired qualifications of the persons to be added, with a timetable for adding new faculty and plan for funding new positions.

It will not be necessary to add new full-time faculty to begin the program. There are currently enough full-time faculty members in the cooperating departments to sponsor the program.

The University is committed to hiring additional faculty in the Adult and Career Education and in Public Administration in year two and subsequent years provided projected enrollment targets are met. This hiring is not contingent on nor is it a prerequisite to the acceptance of the Bachelor of Science in Organizational Leadership. This was a previous decision based upon potential enrollment growth in the existing online program in Adult and Career Education, and in online courses in the existing minor in Public Administration.

14. Fiscal, Facilities, Enrollment Impact, and Estimated Budget

a. Provide a narrative that explains how current institutional resources will be expended specifically for this program. Provide a narrative that explains how the institution will fiscally support the establishment of the new program through the redirection of existing resources and acquisition of new resources. Indicate whether the institution will submit a request for new funds as part of its budget request. The narrative also needs to explain the basis of the institution's projections with regard to anticipated EFT, head count, student enrollment, estimated expenditures, and projected revenues.

Projected Expenditures:

No new funds are requested to establish this program.

The courses in the program already exist as components of existing degree programs at VSU. Many of the courses are offered annually. A combination of current full-time faculty and part-time instructors will be used. The new program will provide additional enrollments for the ACED courses already scheduled. In response to demand, additional sections will be established.

In Political Science, a combination of full-time faculty and part-time instructors will teach the undergraduate Public Administration courses. The cost will be estimated for the additional funds needed for part-time instructors to teach courses or replace full-time faculty in other courses ($15,000 for First Year).

Student Enrollment, FTE, Headcount estimates:

The Division of Adult Academic Degree Completion and Professional Development Programs has responded to numerous inquiries regarding the offering of undergraduate degrees for adult learners. These inquiries have increased as more and more adult learners seek to enhance their employment credentials.

The initial year of program offering is expected to produce 15 students with an additional 15 joining the program in each subsequent year. An enrollment of 35-45 students would provide sustainability, based on an acceptance of 15-20 new students each year into the program. The multidisciplinary nature of the program of study provides a scalability that could accommodate a significantly larger enrollment if demand grows. A 12 hour semester credit load was used for computing tuition revenues.

Projected Revenue:

Revenue estimates are intentionally low. The estimate is based on the projected enrollment of 15 students in the first year, with a 12 credit hour load, and six credit hours over the summer, for a total of 30 hours each year. On this basis the program would generate $87,210 the first year.

These revenues would more than cover expenses related to the degree program. As the program grows, the second or third year revenues generated by new student enrollment will provide funds for additional faculty lines necessary to scale the program.
