MFT PROGRAM DATA

The program considers both current students and alumni as communities of interest (COI), or stakeholders of the program, and we value your feedback. As you probably already know, one of the ways the program solicits your feedback is through surveys. Several times throughout the year, the program sends out a number of surveys to you, our COI, asking for your feedback regarding different topics. Below, is a snapshot of the results we received from your feedback.

FEEDBACK FROM OUR STUDENTS

*Data represents participants who answered with a score of 4 or higher (1 = Not at all, 5= Absolutely).

EXIT SURVEY

The Exit Survey asks soon-to-be graduates to provide feedback on the program. Students rate on a scale of 1-10 (1=disagree, 10=agree) how well their education and training prepared them in each student learning outcome.

OUTCOME-BASED EDUCATIONAL (OBE) AND ASSESSMENT PLAN (AP)

As part of its commitment to continuous improvement and adherence to COAMFTE accreditation standards, the Marriage and Family Therapy (MFT) Program conducts an annual systematic review to evaluate the relevance and effectiveness of its outcome-based educational (OBE) and assessment plan (AP). This evaluative process is designed to determine whether substantial revisions are necessary in light of changes such as accreditation requirements, state regulations, core competencies, the program mission, or institutional structure—such as shifts in program delivery modality or college reorganization. Following the 2024 annual faculty review, the Program has determined that no modifications to the existing OBE framework or AP are currently warranted. The current structure continues to align with COAMFTE's core competencies and effectively supports the program's mission and student learning outcomes.

We invite you to review the MFT Program's current OBE and AP. Feedback and recommendations are welcome and may be submitted via our contact us page, as we remain committed to maintaining excellence through transparency, responsiveness, and collaborative reflection. MAIN MENU
