

Results from Graduate Survey for Program Improvement (GSPI)
Initial Teacher Preparation Programs
2012-2013

The Graduate Survey for Program Improvement (GSPI) was developed by members of the COE Assessment Committee in an effort to establish a procedure to follow up with graduates and employers. The GSPI is sent to graduates of initial teacher preparation and other school professional preparation programs the spring or summer of the year following their graduation. The survey is sent concomitantly with the Employer Survey for Program Improvement (ESPI) and is sent to each graduate. The Georgia Professional Standards Commission (GaPSC) provides contact information for these candidates to the EPP upon our request. The response rate for the 2012-13 GSPI mailed distribution to completers of a reported initial teacher preparation program was 19.5%.

Overall, the educator preparation program prepared me to function as an educator.

Results from Graduate Survey for Program Improvement (GSPI)
Initial Teacher Preparation Programs
2013-2014

The Graduate Survey for Program Improvement (GSPI) was developed by members of the COE Assessment Committee in an effort to establish a procedure to follow up with graduates and employers. The GSPI is sent to graduates of initial teacher preparation and other school professional preparation programs the spring or summer of the year following their graduation. The survey is sent concomitantly with the Employer Survey for Program Improvement (ESPI) and is sent to each graduate. The Georgia Professional Standards Commission (GaPSC) provides contact information for these candidates to the EPP upon our request. The response rate for the 2013-14 GSPI mailed distribution to completers of a reported initial teacher preparation program was 15.6%. Completors who were not employed as an educator in the area in which they were prepared at VSU were not included in this analysis.

The preparation program prepared me to design and implement developmentally appropriate and challenging experiences using my understanding of how learners grow and develop.

Results from Graduate Survey for Program Improvement (GSPI)
Initial Other School Professional Preparation Programs
2012-2013

The Graduate Survey for Program Improvement (GSPI) was developed by members of the COE Assessment Committee in an effort to establish a procedure to follow up with graduates and employers. The GSPI is sent to graduates of initial teacher preparation and other school professional preparation programs the spring or summer of the year following their graduation. The survey is sent concomitantly with the Employer Survey for Program Improvement (ESPI) and is sent to each graduate. The Georgia Professional Standards Commission (GaPSC) provides contact information for these candidates to the EPP upon our request. The response rate for the 2012-13 GSPI mailed distribution for completers of a reported initial other school professional preparation program was 14.5%.

Overall, the educator preparation program prepared me to function as an educator.

Results from Graduate Survey for Program Improvement (GSPI)
Endorsements
2013-2014

The Graduate Survey for Program Improvement (GSPI) was developed by members of the COE Assessment Committee in an effort to establish a procedure to follow up with graduates and employers. The GSPI is sent to graduates of initial teacher preparation and other school professional preparation programs the spring or summer of the year following their graduation. The survey is sent concomitantly with the Employer Survey for Program Improvement (ESPI) and is sent to each graduate. The Georgia Professional Standards Commission (GaPSC) provides contact information for these candidates to the EPP upon our request. The response rate for the 2013-14 GSPI mailed distribution for completers of a reported endorsement was 13.4%. Completers who were not employed as an educator in the area in which they were prepared at VSU were not included in this analysis.

The preparation program prepared me to design and implement developmentally appropriate and challenging experiences using my understanding of how learners grow and develop.
