

Go ahead—get your hands dirty!

Here's what you need to know:

- Students who participate in extracurricular activities are more likely to succeed in college.
- Employers value job applicants who know how to demonstrate their creativity and writing skills.
- Working on student publications does both!

Fall 2020 Opportunities

JOUR 2500 Newspaper Seminar (1 hour, crn 80721) 3:30-4:20 p.m. Mondays: This is how you become a member of the Spectator staff—a staff that has won 36 awards from the Georgia College Press Association in the last five years, had eight members win scholarships of $1,000+, and had about a dozen internships (some paid) in that same time period.

The Spectator is an editorially independent student news organization. That means that nobody—not President Carvajal or any of the lesser beings at VSU (including advisers)—can tell the staff what to publish.

You have the opportunity to learn what you want to practice: writing, editing, photography, layout, reporting, web, social media.

We measure your value by your talent and energy, not your class standing.

If the class is full when you go to register, email Dr. Pat Miller at pmiller@valdosta.edu and we'll get you in.

If you have questions, contact Dr. Ted Geltner at tageltner@valdosta.edu or come by the Spectator in 1238 Hopper Hall after 5 p.m. on a Wednesday night and get a first-hand view of what you, too, could be doing.

JOUR 2510 Magazine Seminar (1 hour, crn 80775) 5-5:50 p.m. Tuesdays: On Tap is a student-run general interest magazine that covers all kinds of topics—fashion, travel, environmental issues and more. Got an idea? Pitch it. Write it. See it come to life. On Tap is both printed and digital.

Skills you can learn include writing, editing, photography, and design. See what it's like to bring something from concept to creation.

Odradek—Odradek is VSU's literary arts magazine. It features short stories, poetry, creative nonfiction, translations, graphic narratives and art. Though published annually, the staff works year-round to make sure it can produce the best creative work VSU students have to offer.

Skills you can learn include editing, management, and design. See what it's like to bring something from concept to creation. Send Deborah Hall your contact information as Odradek meets as a class only in spring but does marketing and calls for submissions in fall (getting together outside of class).

Contact Dr. Deborah Hall at dehall@valdosta.edu or drop by her office in West Hall (2115) and see a sample copy and discuss with her.
